

JOB CORPS AND THE MILITARY

Thinking about entering the military?
Job Corps can help you reach your goal.

Job Corps can prepare you for a career in the military, helping you to achieve enlistment requirements for any of the U.S. armed services.

Job Corps offers:

- Physical training
- Academic enrichment
- Career Technical Training
- Leadership enhancement
- Preparation for the Armed Services Vocational Aptitude Battery (ASVAB) test

Job Corps has been working to prepare students for military careers throughout the program's history, and has formal employer partnerships with the U.S. Army.

Job Corps staff work closely with local military recruitment offices to ensure that your enlistment process is a smooth and successful one. Military preparation through Job Corps will help qualify enlistees for bonuses.

Success lasts a lifetime.

As part of your training, you can earn your high school diploma, too. The Job Corps GED program, coupled with 675 clock hours of Career Technical Training, is counted by the U.S. military as a high school diploma, making individuals eligible for enlistment.

Job Corps students currently exceed the national average on their military entrance exams – you can be one of them.

Students working toward a military career also enjoy special field trips with various branches of the U.S. military.

Job Corps is the nation's oldest and largest federally funded education and job training program for disadvantaged youth ages 16 to 24.
